

About the Palliative Care Hub

The Hub is a welcoming haven for everyone.

The building reflects Ballarat Hospice Care values:

loyalty, kindness, honesty, respect, trust, skill and willingness.

Our values guide our community interaction. Our visitors feel welcome and the space they walk into is accessible and inviting.

There are dedicated spaces for education, meetings and consulting. The meeting rooms are not branded so hirers can make the space their own during the time they are using them. The artwork on display in the public area and meeting rooms acknowledge the traditional owners of the land on which the Palliative Care Hub stands, the Wadawurrung people and the Hub's rich community connection.

“ The training space at Ballarat Hospice is ideal for small or large workshops. The facilities are modern, fresh and spotlessly clean, and the technology provided is state of the art. The training room is bright and comfortable, with lovely views onto the garden area. It can be divided into two smaller workrooms, which is perfect when you need a breakout room. A conveniently located and well equipped kitchen, sufficient bathrooms and easy parking all add to the comfort of participants. I would definitely consider this venue for any workshops I facilitate in the future. ”
